The Hoosier Demagogue Almost Flooded with Congratulations.

His Friends Seem to Forget that to Republican Senators Is Due the Passage of the Repeal Bill.

MR. PEFFER MUCH SURPRISED

He Was Evidently Not Posted on Daniel's Financial Vagaries.

Another Candidate for the Indianapolis Surveyorship-Place for Major Kidd, of Wabash.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- Senator Voorhees is being literally inundated with letters and telegrams from all parts of the country congratulating him, as chairman of the finance committee, upon the final success of the bill unconditionally repealing the silver-purchase law, after a struggle the most memorable in the history of the Senate. Naturally, the Hoosier Senator feels very good after a success which nine-tenths of the men in Congress for nearly two months confidently believed would result in defeat, a success which Senator Voorhees himself for weeks se cretly believed was beyond the power of achievement.

An intimate senatorial friend of Senator William Alfred Peffer, of Kansas, who, by the way, was an Indiana school teacher for some time and up to June, 1853, when he went West to grow up with the country, says that Senator Voorhees escaped a severe personal castigation at the hands of "His Whiskers" from the cyclone State. Senator Peffer, in looking over the congressional directory a few days ago was made to gasp with astonishment by finding in the autobiography of Daniel Woolsey Voorhees numerous references to his lifelong greenback and free silver principles. He was astonished to read these sentences from the biography written by the Indiana Senator:

'Soon after entering the Senate he addressed that body in favor of free coinage of silver and the preservation of a greenback currency as full legal-tender money. In this speech he laid down the principles on which, as a direct issue, the State of Indiana was carried by the Democratic party the following year (1878) by over thirty thousand in the election of members of the Legislature, and this Legislature returned him to the Senate by twenty-three majority on joint ballot over Benjamin

When Senator Peffer read this from the pen of Senator Voorhees he exclaimed to a Senator who sat beside him words in effect like these: "If the present action of Mr. Voorhees does not constitute him a traitor to his constituency I cannot see what will make a man a traitor, and I intend to call the attention of the country to this

Senator Peffer, probably after reading the observations of his illustrious predecessor, John J. Ingalls, a few years ago, in respect to the public career of Mr. Voorhees, formulated in his mind a speech which one Senator, after talking the matter over to the Populist statesman from Kansas, described as being "highly sensa-tional in character." Senator Teller, hearing that Mr. Peffer was going to "submit some remarks upon Mr. Voorhees," went to the gentleman from Kansas and asked him to desist from further speech making, saying that he (Teller) was almost sick. his health having become delicate from the long siege. Mr. Peffer did not make his speech, and thus Indiana has been saved from another laundry scene.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Hill Proposes to Change the Rules- Debate on the Chinese. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- After the reading and approval of yesterday's journal in the Senate several bills were favorably reported from committees and placed on the calendar. A joint resolution was reported by Mr. Gray, from the committee on foreign relations, to provide for printing the history and digests of international arbitrations to which the United States was a party. Mr. Gray said it would be a valuable history, and asked that it be passed. The bill was

Mr. Hill offered two amendments to the rules, and asked their reference to the committee on rules. The first was: "Resolved, That Subdivision 2 of Rule of the standing rules of the Senate be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: 'If at any time during the daily sessions of the Senate a question shall be raised by any Senator as to the presence of a quorum the presiding officer shall forthwith direct the Secretary to call the roll. and shall announce the result, and the proceedings shall be without debate; but no Senator while speaking shall be interrupted by any other Senator raising the question of the lack of a quorum, and the question as to the presence of a quorum shall not be raised oftener than once in every hour, but this provision shall not apply when the absence of a quorum is disclosed upon any roll call of the yeas and nays."

The second amendment was as follows: "Resolved, That Rule 5 of the standing rules of the Senate be, and the same is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following: 'Whenever, upon any roll call, any Senator who is present within the Senate chamber refuses to make responses when his name shall be called it shall be | Special to the Indianapolis Journal. the duty of the presiding officer, either on | WARASH Ind. resolution was referred to the committee on the District of Columbia. Mr. Hoar presented a memorial from Miss Clara Barton, president of the American Red Cross Association, asking the assist-ance of Congress for the relief of the sufferers from the hurricane at the sea islands and on the coast of South Carolina and Georgia.

Mr. Turple created somewhat of a stir by objecting very forcibly to the reading of the resolution. He was apparently actu-ated by a feeling of retaliation, for he stated that he objected because, when he introduced a resolution yesterday, its con-sideration was objected to by the Senator from Massachusetts. He declared that he wished to maintain the parity of senatorial

Mr. Hoar replied that he had good rea-sons for the objections he made yesterday, but it was not necessary to go into that. He would do any thing, he said, short of going down on his knees to the Senator from Indiana, or anything unworthy of his manhood. It was not a personal memorial which he introduced, or one affecting his constituents, but affecting 30,000 people who were in a helpless and starving condition.

Mr. Turple was obdurate, however, and refused to withdraw his objection, but Mr. Cockrell suggested that the resolution had the right to be heard once in spite of ob-

Mr. Butler rose and spoke feelingly of the condition of affairs in South Carolina, which State he represented. Miss Barton had gone to South Carolina at his invitation and the invitation of the Governor of the State, and they together had made a tour of the devastated district, and the distress and suffering were even greater than

Mr. Turple stated that he would with-draw his objection to the reading of the memorial out of deference to the Senator from South Carolina. The resolution was

Mr. Hoar gave notice that he would call it up to-morrow, and at 1:20 the real business of the day began, when Mr. Gray brought up the Chinese bill and spoke in favor of the extension of the time in which its provisions should go into effect. He said there were many Chinese in the prisons of California who were held there because there was not money enough available to deport them, and because the provisions of the act did not allow of their liberation on

At 3:55 p. m. the Clerk of the House of Pepresentatives appeared at the bar of the Schate and presented the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and announced the concurrence of the House in the Senate amendments to the same. A few minutes later the Vice President announced his signature to the bill. Consideration of the Chinese exclusion act was resumed and Mr. Squire offered an amendment appropriating $100,000 for the enforcement during the present fiscal year the several acts regulating and pro hibiting Chinese immigration and addressed the Senate in advocacy of it. Mr. Gray attempted to secure unanimous consent that a vote on the pending bill be taken at 4 o'cleck to-morrow evening, saying the hope had been expressed on the Democratic side that there could be an adjournment of Congress day after to-morrow.

Mr. Hoar objected. The Senate then, on motion of Mr. Gray, went into executive session, after which it

J. M. Healey Wants to Be Surveyor of the Port of Indianapolis.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.-James M. Healey, of Indianapolis, is the latest one to announce his ambition to be surveyor of customs for the port. He formally placed upon the files of the Treasury Department, to-day, his application for that position, together with a number of indorsements. Hon. John E. Lamb sent an important telegram to Joshua Jump, at Terre Haute, to-day, respecting the appointment of a collector of internal revenue for that district. There is considerable anxiety among the friends of Representative Brookshire as to the contents of the message. Senator Voorhees's followers believe the message informed Jump that he would be appointed collector this week. Mr. Brookshire's followers contend that it either indicated doubt as to whether the appointment would go to Terre Haute or Crawfordsville, or informed Jump that his appointment would not be made until after the adjournment Preliminary papers for the appointment of a pension examining board at Kendallville were to-day sent to Drs. Place for Major Kidd, of Wabash-New Pension Agent for Chicago. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- The President to-day sent the following nominations to Henry L. Dawes, of Massachusetts, Mer-edith H. Kidd, of Indiana, and Archibald S. McKennon, of Arkansas, to be commissioners to negotiate with the five civilized tribes under the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1893. W. B. Anderson, of Illinois, to be pension agent at Chicago; George Harper, of Georgia, to be agent for the Indians of the Umatilla agency in Oregon; David F. Day, of Colorado, to be agent for the Indians of the southern Ute agency in Colorado. First Lieutenant George F. Cooke, Fifteenth Infantry, to be captain; Second Lieutenant Marcus Maxwell, Fifteenth Infantry, to be first lieutenant. William B. Anderson, who was nominated as United States pension agent at Chicago, was colonel of an Illinois regiment during the war. He was elected to the Forty-fourth Congress as a Greenbacker, and was collector of internal revenue for the Cairo (Ill.) district during the first Cleveland administration. He was indorsed by Senator Palmer, Congressman Springer and most of the Illinois delegation. Among the Senate confirmations to-day were the following: Edwin F. Uhl, of Michigan, to be assistant Secretary of State: to be commissioners to negotiate with the Cherokee, Chickasaw, Choctaw, Creek and Seminole Indian nations, under the provisions of the act of March 2, 1893, Henry L. Dawes, Meridith H. Kidd and Archibald S. McKennon; to be postmasters: Patrick Dillon, at Haughville, Ind.; Silas J. Brandon, at Auburn, Ind.; Lucius O. Bishop, at Clinton, Ind.; Reuben J. Rushing, at Pinckneyville, Ill.; John A. McClair, at Benton, Ill.; Henry C. Feltman, at Salem, Ill.

Wabash County Pleased.

WABASH, Ind., Nov. 1.-All the citizens of Wabash, regardless of political faith, are congratulating Major Kidd over his appointment by the President as a member the Cherokee Indian commission. Major Kidd stands at the head of the bar here and, added to his long years of legal prache brings to his new duties a mind well stored with much knowledge of and actual experience with the Indians and their territory. He will be one of the most valuable members of the commission.

Windfall Boiler Explosion - Kokomo Girl Who Ran Off to the Fair Found -Several Indiana Deaths.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 1.-Buck Creek a small place in this county, seven miles from Lafayette, was the scene of an exciting occurrence this forenoon, and that there were not three jobs for the coroner was not the fault of Edward Cool, a farm hand, aged twenty-three. For some time Cool has made his home with Luke Lowe. About a month ago the men had trouble and Lowe whipped Cool, but the differences were patched up, and Cool continued to live at the Lowe home. Tuesday Cool began to drink again, and this morning procured a revolver. Lowe tried to get the revolver from him, but he refused to give it up. While standing by the door talking with Lowe and his wife Cool suddenly pulled his weapon, and with a remark, "I'll kill you," fired. The bullet passed through the sleeve of Mrs. Lowe's dress, the powder burning her clothes and hand. The ball lodged in the left side of Lowe, just below the heart. It struck a rib, which deflected it, and saved his life. Cool tried to shoot a second time, but Lowe slammed the door shut.

Cool then started on a run to the saloon of Obediah Haller, and, bounding into the room, shouted, "You have been slurring me, and I'll kill you." He then began firing. Cool's father tried to intercept him. but failed. Haller was sitting down when Cool rushed in, and stood up as the weapon was discharged. The bullet struck Haller in the right hip. Haller sprang at Cool and grabbed him by the throat. Although having but one hand, he clung to the would-be murderer and compelled him to go to the office of the justice. Here, while they were waiting to open the office, Cool suddenly drew his pocket knife, and, before he could be stopped, cut two ugly gashes in his own throat, and tried to carve another. The blood spurted over the floor and on the bystanders.

Doctors removed the bullets from Lowe and Haller, but Cool refused to have his neck dressed until he came here, where a physician sewed up the rents in his neck, eight stitches being needed. Cool tried to tear the wounds open with his hands, but was prevented. Lowe and his wife say that when drinking Cool becomes insane, and that he was in this condition for two days. He once before tried to shoot himself, but was prevented by Mrs. Lowe. Haller's injuries are not serious; those of Lowe are. Cool will not die.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PERU, Ind., Nov. 1. - Particulars concerning one of the most infamous deeds in the history of this county have just been received from Bunker Hill, a small town south of this city. Some days ago an honest old man, aged seventy, well known throughout the county, and called "Jimmy, the ditcher," otherwise James McDonald, was in one of the saloons of that place with two boon companions, who in drunken spirit deliberately proceeded to pour coal oil over him and light it for the fun of seeing him burn. The ciothes were almost burned from his body and he was terribly injured, so much so that his case is considered critical. But for the assistance of by-standers the man would have been burned to death. Much indignation is expressed, but no arrests have yet been

HOW MISS VANLUE SAW THE FAIR. Fourteen-Year-Old Girl Ran Away and Saw the White City.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. KOKOMO, Ind., Nov. 1.-Miss Willa Clara Vanlue, the pretty fourteen-year-old daughter of William Vanlue, a prominent farmer near this city, mysteriously disappeared from her home ten days ago, taking with her $65 belonging to her father. The latter enlisted the help of police officers and a thorough search was made. The girl was found to-day at Frankfort. She was on her way home from Chicago whither she had gone alone to see the world's fair. The girl, being intelligent and ambitious had an irresistible desire to see the Columbian exposition, and knowing of no other way she struck out for Chicago unattended She spent a week viewing the sights and then fearing the wrath of her father the little miss stopped at Frankfort where she had a friend, deciding to remain there until she could sound her father's state of mind before returning home. The patriotic girl was welcomed back with open arms and freely forgiven.

THE BOILER WENT OFF. One Man Killed and Three Injured in an Explosion at Windfall. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

TIPTON, Ind., Nov. 1. - This morning there was a terrible boiler explosion in the Windfall flouring mill, a town about eight miles from this city. The boiler and engine rooms were literally demolished. About onehalf of the boiler was thrown a distance of four hundred feet and fell on the railroad track. The other end went up into the mill, doing a great amount of damage among the machinery. Lewis Null, aged sixty-five, the engineer, was instantly killed, and Clayton Summerton, Milton Cox and Ed Fouche were more or less injured. The boiler was dry when cold water was pumped in, causing the explosion.

Death of Ex-Mayor McDonald.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW ALBANY, Ind., Nov. 1.-Morris McDonald, sr., ex-Mayor of this city, died of heart disease at 1 o'clock this afternoon, at his home in this city. He was born in Centerville, O., in 1837, and had been a resident of this city since a child. He leaves a wife and three children, John and Morris, jr., and Mrs. James Dunbar. He held several political offices, among them school trustee, councilman and Mayor. In 1880 he was prominently mentioned as candidate for the nomination as Treasurer of State on the Republican ticket. He was elected Mayor in 1889 and was re-elected in 1891. He served one year of his second term and resigned, owing to the action of the Council in not allowing him to name the Council committees. A deadlock of three months followed before his successor was elected. He leaves a fortune of nearly $200,000. He was considered a good financier and was connected with many corporations. He was one of the promoters of the Kentucky and Indiana bridge which connects New Albany and Louisville. He also was the principal stockholder in the Belt and Terminal railroad in this city, and at one time was vice president of the L., E. & St. L. Rail-road Company. He possessed large hold-ings of bank stocks, and was a director in several banks. The funeral will take place

Stone Still an Enigma.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Nov. 1.-Those who have canvassed murderer Stone's three statements in connection with the murder of the Wratten family are almost universally of the opinion that his second statement was the truth, and that he murdered the family without assistance. The grand jury reconsidered its action on Mc-Cafferty and Swanagan, whom Stone last implicated, and the men are still at liberty. Strong circumstances connect them with the murder, as is true with Williams, Cosby and Rays, but it is claimed by friends of each that they can easily explain away this circumstantial evidence. Mrs. Stone was taken to prison to-day, in the hope that she will be able to induce her husband to quit his lying and give the offi-cers the benefit of all he knows. Lawyers for Cosby and Williams made a demand on the court for their dismissal, on the grounds that the State had abandoned the theory that they are guilty. The State denies this, and the motion was taken under advisement. The grand jury has now examined over five hundred witnesses and will make up its report Friday and adjourn.

Father Sorin's Funeral.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 1.-The funeral of the late Very Rev. Edward Sorin, C. S. C., founder of the University of Notre Dame, will be held Friday forenoon. At 9 o'clock the office of the dead will be said, and at 10 o'clock Bishop Joseph Rademacher, of Fort Wayne diocese, will sing requiem mass, assisted by all the prominent priests of Notre Dame. Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati, arrived to-night and will preach the sermon immediatly after mass. The remains will then be conveyed to the community cemetery, on the banks of St. Mary's lake, and be interred between the remains of late President Thomas E. Walsh and Father Alexis Granger. The body was removed from the residence to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where services took place this afternoon, and will lie in state to-morrow. Many prominent Catholics are here to attend the last rites.

Muncie Quarantine Soon to Go.. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 1.-The records in the office of Dr. F. G. Jackson, city health officer, show the following facts concerning the smallpox epidemic in Muncie: Total number of cases to date, 146; total number of infected houses, 70; total number of deaths, 20; total number of patients discharged as cured, 86; well, but not yet discharged, 7; total number of cases now under treatment, 3; total number of con-valescents, all in hospital, 30; number of houses under quarantine, 1; number of houses disinfected and discharged, 69. The indications now are that the quarantine will be raised by the first of next week. The churches will be opened next Sunday and the schools will be started Monday morning. The lodges will be opened next week and the theaters will open their season then.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 1.-The Mayor of the town of Dixon, on the Ohio State line, in the eastern part of this county, telegraphed at 11 o'clock to-night for the Fort Wayne fire department. The engine started in thirty minutes by a special train. A fire had started in the sawmill of John Hooper at Dixon, and the mill and lumber yards are entirely destroyed. The fire is spreading, and will soon reach the Pennsylvania railway depot. All the wires are down, and no information can be had until the department returns. The loss has already reached $10,000.

Suicide of a Septuagenarian.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BEDFORD, Ind., Nov. 1.-Mrs. Sarah Inman, aged seventy-four, residing in Indian Creek township, a few miles southwest of this city, has committed suicide. She told the family her intention of attending a meeting at a church not far distant, and nothing wrong was suspected until some of her effects were found conspicuously placed along the roadside. This led to a hasty investigation and her body was discovered lying in the creek lifeless. No cause can be assigned for her rash act, except temporary insanlty.

BOSTON, Nov. 1 .- Five thousand people struggled and fought to get into Boston's old historic Music Hall to-night: "hen they fought to buy tickets for Jack McAuliffe's benefit, and they fought for their scats in the hall. Harry Tracy, in his contest with McAuliffe, carried off the honors of the evening, if honors they were. His work was much admired by the crowd, and he won many backers for his coming fight with Wilcutt. McAuliffe and Tracy sparred for three rounds, and Jack was obliged to hustle in the last one. Tracy drove him all over the stage and was loudly cheered. Tim McCoy, a wiry Westerner, was introduced as the light-weight champion of Ohio. He had a set-to with Tim McCarry, of New York. The contest was, for the most part, a hugging match, but a few good blows were got in by the Ohioan which could be heard all over the hall. Captain Daly then called out the lion of the evening, Charles Mitchell. Mitchell came out bared to his waist and the crowd cheered. He could not resist the opportunity to make a speech, so he silenced the audience with a sweep of his massive hand. He said he proposed to fight Corbett. His money was up and he was not going to leave until he fought. He said he was in prime condition and spoiling for a fight. He came here to fight and he proposed to stay right here until he made Corbett agree to a fight. Hall was too sick to bex with Mitcheil. McAuliffe came out and had a set-to with the English champion that lasted a few minutes. Steve O'Donell, of Australia, was introduced to the crowd and then disappeared. Mitchell is highly indignant over the published remarks of champion Corbett. He says he is not afraid or Corbett in the ring or out of it. "The idea," said Mitchell, of Corbett saying I left New York because I was afraid to meet him. All he has to do is to send me word privately and I will go alone to any place where he says he will be. I do not believe he thinks any less about my face than I do, and if he starts to carry out his threat of punching me on sight he will find me right in the same game with him."
